

TAKE THE RISK OUT OF YOUR RISK ASSESSMENT

In NLTG's experience, a lot of employers are apprehensive about how they go about carrying out their risk assessments.

There is often a perception from some employers that assessments involve masses of paperwork and the best option is to 'get someone in to do the job'. There is no prescribed method of carrying out risk assessment, the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations state that the employer must make a suitable and sufficient assessment of risks.

We like to keep things simple, that way things get done. We believe that the best people to do the risk assessment are your people:

- 1) because they generally know far more about the hazards and risks than any consultant will and
- 2) by doing risk assessment it gives them ownership and heightens their awareness to the hazards and what they should be doing to reduce risks.

This is why we don't do risk assessments for anybody else other than NLTG.

There is no prescribed method of carrying out risk assessment, the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations state that the employer must make a suitable and sufficient assessment of risks. What NLTG do offer is training in the simplest method of carrying out risk assessment that we have come across.

WHAT IS INVOLVED?

Course duration:	1 hour
Venue:	Your premises
Maximum number of attendees:	12 persons

Facilities required:	Clean and quiet room with sufficient tables and chairs preset out in a horseshoe arrangement to accommodate the number of persons attending Power supply and one table and chair for the trainer
Date:	To be mutually agreed
Cost*:	£120 plus VAT for the first course and £60 plus VAT for each subsequent course delivered on the same day Mileage charged at 42p per mile

*Costs are based on the venue being within 50 mile radius of Accrington.
Costs for venues further away to be agreed on an individual basis

For additional information or to arrange any of the above please contact NLTG's Health & Safety Manager Simon Clarke

01254 397119 or email simon.clarke@nltg.co.uk
NLTG Head Office
1 Oak Street, Accrington, BB5 1EQ